Kentucky gets very warm, very quickly in May! Jim was in the yard all afternoon today, putting in coleus, Gerba daisies, impatiens, dahlias and day lilies, getting color in the yard for August, when the bulbs I love so much are finished with their bloom. He is getting us ready for Homecoming 2014, which will take place over Labor Day weekend. As for me, I rejoice in the air conditioning! And I continue to work on the data base for "emotion". This is preparatory to further writing on the next book of the Living the Law of One series, which I will call 102: The Outer Work. But back to our next gathering, the Homecoming. Plans are just beginning to come together, and those who want seats are beginning to write in and reserve theirs. Please join them! Homecoming will be wonderful!

– Carla L. Rueckert

Homecoming 2014

Why is May an exciting month for us? Because each May L/L Research does its equivalent of shouting "LIVE FROM NEW YORK, IT'S SATURDAY NIGHT!", announcing its annual Homecoming Gathering held in its hometown of Louisville, KY. Except without an opening skit. And a much less talented cast.

Beginning: Friday, August 29

Ending: Sunday, August 31

(With optional, additional time on Monday, September 1st if you'd like to hang out longer.... and help put stuff away.)

Format

At this year's Homecoming we will do as we have in year's past, and create space for attendees to use a segment of time to present on a topic that is close to his or her heart. The amount of time usually works out to around 30 minutes per person.

Presentation is not necessary – many choose to participate in the event without presenting – but it is highly encouraged if you have even an inkling of interest. We love hearing from everyone in the circle and find the energy flows, builds, and spirals upward ever so intensely and beautifully when seekers bring something to the table.

Site of last year's Homecoming

Options for presentation include but are not limited to:

- Sharing of an important event in your life, be it traumatic or wholly positive
- Sharing of significant current catalyst, be it a life lesson, or recent conundrum
- Performing the entire Lord of the Rings trilogy in under 30 minutes
- Coming with a question for the group in order to receive feedback from other seekers
- Reading a paper you wrote regarding philosophy, metaphysics, or something else close to your heart.
- Playing or performing music, reciting poetry, or other creative expression
- Spoon bending exhibition. (Seriously, if you can bend spoons with your mind, please show us.)

The basic criteria are that your presentation be in some way related to spirituality/philosophy/personal growth, and of course not be heinously offensive to other attendees. Within those parameters the possibilities are limitless.

Registration

With that, registration is open!

For more logistical information please click here.

To register please click here or send an email to us at contact@llresearch.org.

If you would like to discuss the upcoming event with other seekers and perhaps look into the possibility of carpooling and/or room sharing and/or couch surfing, please visit Homecoming's thread on the Bring4th Forums in the "Meet-Up Area" forum here.

Carla's Update

Jim writes: This past April Carla observed the third anniversary of the surgery on her lower back which began her current situation. The first year of the recovery saw multiple infections stop and retard the healing. The second year and a half saw three attempts at using a wound VAC pump that had no real effect on the wound. The last six months have seen the first time use of Santyl ointment and silver nitrate on the wound. The wound bed is now rising in a number of places. We are hopeful with continued treatment and patience that the wound will heal completely within the next year. It should be noted that Carla has maintained a constant positive attitude and love of life during this whole process. It feels to both of us that we are exactly where we need to be and doing just what we need to be doing. We look forward to seeing folks at this year's Homecoming Gathering.

New Website! (not yet)

In 15.14, Ra said, "The understanding, experiencing, accepting, and merging of self with self and with other-self, and finally with the Creator, is the path to the heart of self." Naturally we took this to mean that our two websites also need merged. As such we embarked upon a quest to merge and unify our archive website, www.lresearch.org, with our community website, www.bring4th.org. This project began in earnest last year and continues full steam ahead. (Though sometimes the steam is more like a subtle, almost imperceptible wind.) Our goal is to have the new website released and ready by Summer, 2014.

The new supersite will retain the URL www.lresearch.org, and will contain both the library and the community aspects. All of this will be organized and navigable through a horizontal menu system that stretches from left to right across the top third of the screen with expanding, drop-down vertical columns.

You can read a comprehensive listing of all the upgrades we hope to make to the new website by going to this thread on Bring4th. (Steve E., L/L Research's webmaster, gives a current update at the end of the thread.) Among the highlights of the many upgrades, we hope to create:

User Account: A global user account that allows the user not only to access the forums and the online store with a single account, but also allows the same account to create a custom experience of the library. For instance, the user can star favorite transcripts, mark them as "read" or "unread", and add individual transcripts to custom-made lists, including To Read Later and Save This Recipe.

Topical Organization: The lifetime of material that Carla, Jim, and other L/L channels have produced is vast. Currently they are organized only by year. We hope to organize them in topical fashion, allowing the user to sort not only by topic, but by Confederation source, "most read", etc.

Our Identity and Services: The way the websites are currently organized, it's not entirely clear what services we offer, and who we are. We hope to clarify this through greater prominence and organization of these services. (Always, of course, making our identity/story secondary and subordinate to the primary function of the website: the sharing of the Confederation philosophy.) This new section will include sections regarding L/L's history, its staff/volunteers, and its mission statement.

All of the above-mentioned items are in addition to an improved online store with multiple shipping speeds and recurring donations, a website that functions better on mobile and tablet devices, and even greater means of facilitating the connecting of seeker to seeker, including more prominent listing of study group's around the world.

Publication Updates

Ra Session mp3's

A project years in the works is complete: all 106 sessions of the Ra Contact are finally and fully available for digital download in our online store! And they are available by individual Q&A's at www.lawofone.info.

Our current online store won't let us bundle multiple sessions for a discount (they are currently $3.00 per session), so we found a workaround and created a means whereby the user can order a custom-made L/L Research flash drive that contains multiple sessions at a discount.

Prior to this project, only a handful of people had ever heard the actual Ra Contact. Many thanks to Plenum for all his volunteer effort in making this happen.

Translations

German: The translations of L/L Research material continue apace, most notably the Law of One into German. As of this writing, our friend Jochen Blumenthal has only seventeen sessions remaining to translate, and, with the editing help of our editor, Edgard, has produced Book I - III in German.

Chinese: Though the first time the Law of One material was ever translated, it was into Chinese, we have not had the actual Chinese-language books available from the archive website until recently. They are now available here. Many thanks to Terry Hsu.

Romanian: And thanks to Alex Mace, The Law of One has made its first appearance into Romanian.

Spanish: A translator from Mexico, Veronica, has offered to begin translating L/L Research's conscious channeling work into Spanish. --- You translators are amazing people!

Amazonian Services

Kindle: We've been working hard on getting our titles available for the Kindle, the e-reader with the greatest number of users currently on the market. As of May, 2014, we are happy to report that many of our titles are finally available in Kindle format.

We've averaged a copy or two each day of Carla's Living the Law of One 101 from Kindle sales. More than we were selling physical books!

Amazon: We realized that even though we were not selling our physical books through the world-giant Amazon.com, our books nevertheless had product pages on that website. Third-party sellers were attempting to re-sell for astronomical prices. For instance, the cheapest re-sell of a "new" copy of Living the Law of One 101 was... well, give yourself a good laugh and check out this page.

So we decided that we would create an account for L/L Research and sell our own books through Amazon's product pages. We had to increase the retail price for these books because Amazon requires a portion of each sale, but people we still get a handful of sales each week. People seem to want the convenience of Amazon.

Events (in space/time)

Archetypes Workshop: April 22 – 13, 2014

L/L Research enjoyed a wonderful weekend spent exploring the Archetypes of Mind with a small group of seekers in central Kentucky under the teaching and facilitation of our friend Sephira Vox. (As picture above, so picture below.)

The setting was extraordinary. It was the one of the most beautiful homes we've ever personally visited, and we think everyone else in attendance felt likewise. Green rolling hills on 100 acres, hardly a sound that wasn't natural, a big food-and-herb-producing garden surrounded by a homemade fence, a pond behind the house set against more rolling hills that are shining with the bright green of new grass, tiki torches and a walkway we created by stringing white lights through freshly cut bamboo that we placed on either side of the path, a homemade cedar-clad home imbued with some decades of loving attention, music, bonfires, singing, study, and two hosts - Fox and Steve - who couldn't have been more loving and accommodating, all under beautiful springtime baby blue skies.

Sephira was untested as a teacher/facilitator - we had confidence in him but didn't know how and whether it would pan out, but Seph knocked it out of the park. He shared what he knew about the archetypes in a manner that was insightful, informative, and adaptive to the schedule-wrecking energies that a group invariably brings to a curriculum. He patiently listened to the many tangents that naturally arose, riding the waves of the group energy, and synthesized all pieces of information, pertinent or not, back into the function of the weekend.

He put together a hand-out of (a small book, really) of well over 120+ pages that we have been slowly digesting post-workshop. We are of the opinion that it makes a sturdy to friend to the student of the archetypes. We hope to be able to offer it through our archive website in the not distant future.

Spiritfest: September 20 – 22, 2013

L/L Research received an invitation to host a booth at an event called Spirit Fest outside of Indianapolis. With Austin on board this year, we decided we ought to investigate this sort of thing. Austin got all the ducks in a row and we registered for the event.

An easy 2.5 hour drive, we arrived at Camp Chesterfield where has resided a permanent Spiritualist community since the mid-19th century. The grounds were incredible and aesthetically beautiful. The air permeated with a sense of finer, more subtle vibrations, perhaps due to the type of work that has happened there for many decades. Spiritualism is a movement that heavily emphasizes mediumship as a means of communicating with discarnate beings; mostly, as far as I can tell, discarnate entities of Earth's inner planes. Recall the ectoplasmic manifestations witnessed by Don and Carla in the 70's with the aid of Rev. Tingley. It was this place and this community that were responsible.

On the grounds the Spiritualists built a "Trail of Religion" that, among other unique and interesting things, lead to this amazing stone structure with three stone walls bowed outward. In front of those walls were evenly spaced stone busts of historical, religious and mythical figures, from Lao Tsu, Zoroaster, Osiris, and Abraham, to Zeus, Gautama, and Confucius. (Osiris, we concurred, was the most badass among the bunch.) At the center of the whole structure stood a bust of the King. Originally a bust of Elvis but for some reason was replaced by Jesus. They were all so well created and life-like that we thought certainly their eyes would open and out would pour words of wisdom from their stone mouths.

When the fest in Spirit Fest began the following morning, we had a 10 x 10' area under a canopy with our own table. On that table we offered a one-page handout that Carla composed, explaining something of L/L Research and our work, along with two other print-outs, one containing the "About the Authors" page on the archive website, the other containing an impromptu write-up of the "Core Concepts of the Law of One". We displayed L/L's catalogue of books for sale, and we printed a large 48 x 24" posterboard with the L/L logo, our websites, and a quote from Ra about the Law of One that we then secured to a wooden easel and set next to the table.

Attendance was low and sales were not, what you would call, lucrative. Only a handful of books were sold. But we got the opportunity to talk with a lot of great folks, many of whom expressed interest in the information. The majority of those in attendance were there for the clairvoyant/medium opportunities, along with interest in crystal and other vendors. And the weather was beautiful.

Austin's favorite part of farming and, later on, making cheese in North Carolina, was hosting a booth at the weekly farmer's market. So this event was a perfect marriage for him – an opportunity to talk with others from a booth, and talk with them about the Law of One no less. Watching him spring to action, I took a few tips and we slipped naturally and easily into a groove. It all felt fairly effortless, not in the lazy way but in the sense of doing what one is supposed to be doing and feeling no resistance from the environment or within.

The evening of the first day, we attended a service in the chapel that showcased some of the different ways the mediums offer their service, from flame messages to flower art to tarot. It was quite an interesting thing to witness. Among the variety of methods, the medium would receive a message from "spirit" – a discarnate being of some sort – and get that message to the correct recipient in the crowd. There were some stunning "psychic hits": information that seemed to be both accurate and obtained beyond means of the five senses. There was also a lot that was sufficiently general/vague to make a good horoscope. Though not to criticize these mediums –I'm sure it's not the most ideal environment containing as it did the diverse and scattered interests of newcomers.

Ongoing Services

In the Now – Q&A with Carla and Crew

Beginning September, 2010, L/L Research launched In the Now – Q&A with Carla L. Rueckert, with Monica Leal serving as host. The show was designed to give Carla the opportunity to respond to seekers' questions. Eventually Jim joined Carla's question-answering process.

That incarnation of the program lasted until August, 2013. At the time the program was disbanded when Monica determined that she needed to simplify her life and focus on serving and studying more on the home front.

The show was resurrected a few months later in earlier November and re-christened In the Now – Q&A with Carla and Crew. This time around, Carla, Jim, Gary, and Austin – the four core home members of L/L Research – formed a panel, of sorts, to respond to seeker questions.

As of May, 2014, we're still running strong: scanning the corner of our limited brain machines and searching the depths of our heart to offer meaningful, hopefully somewhat helpful responses to seeker questions.

In the Now - Q&A with Carla and Crew

Basic Principles of The Law of One

Available through International Metaphysical University (IMU), Carla L. Rueckert offers an open enrollment class titled “Basic Principles of the Law of One.”

Class description: “The L/L Research group received the Law of One material in the early 1980s, and it has since become a hidden classic in the field of consciousness research. However, it is not easy to read. In 2010 Carla wrote an entry-level book, Living the Law of One-101: The Choice to give seekers an easier run at the material. This will be the text for this class.

In Basic Principles of the Law of One, students will learn about unity, free will, love and light as well as exploring the ways of polarity and the functions and use of the energy body. A student entering this course can expect to learn how to graduate from third density, the Density of Choice, and go on to fourth density, the Density of Love. Carla finds the principles of this philosophy to be very helpful in her own life, and she looks forward to sharing this information and inspiration with you.”

This class can be accessed at International Metaphysical University’s course catalog page <http://intermetu.com/courses/consciousness/law-of-one/>.

To watch Carla’s introduction video to the class, please visit <http://intermetu.com/instructors/faculty-consciousness/carla-l-rueckert-m-a/>.

Daily Q’uote

We offer a “Daily Q’uote” service which features a quote from those of Q’uo – the principal source channeled by L/L Research since 1986. This is available on the home page of our community website, www.bring4th.org, and is the labor of love of our great friend, Fox H.

Carla’s Counseling

Though Carla is not currently offering a personal channeling service due to her medical condition, she does continue to be available for personal counseling. To read more, visit this page http://llresearch.org/carla_counsel.aspx.

Facebook

L/L Research has an awesome Facebook page that is updated with regular Ra excerpts, Q’uotes, and L/L Research news. <https://www.facebook.com/llresearch>

Weekly Public Meditations

L/L Research’s long history of free public meditations took a hiatus beginning April, 2011 when Carla underwent her second major spinal surgery. She's had a prolonged and problematic recovery since that time, causing an extended break from the meditations.

In February of this year we resumed a limited version of the weekly meditations. Each week-end, Carla, Jim, Austin, and Gary gather for shared silent meditation, focusing upon sharing our spiritual walk. If Carla's health improves sufficiently – fingers crossed – L/L will again open the doors to public meditation.

Staff & Volunteer Notes

Austin Arrives

Last time we issued a Gatherings Newsletter, one of our top volunteers and good friends, Austin B., had been invited to join the home crew in Louisville, but had not yet arrived. The happy day finally came in August when Gary burst out the front door, ran to Austin's car, and gave a huge tackling hug, saying, "Brothers don't shake hands, brothers gotta hug!" (In his best Chris Farley, naturally.)

It's been a dream ever since. Not that the universe suddenly stopped presenting catalyst – there's always plenty of that to go around – but rather the transition was seamless, and our collaborative work effort transpires in amazing synchrony and harmony. The strength of Austin's consciousness has added to our capacity to serve in ways that have been sorely needed for some time. Many of the new, or deepened, efforts we've been initiating the past year are thanks to his added manpower.

Azeem Assists

A portion of the correspondence that L/L Research receives from individuals around the world comes from the incarcerated - those spiritual seekers who seek within the confines of prison walls. As you may imagine, their letters contain a more intensive, sustained need for correspondence, as many are often cut-off not only from other spiritual seekers, but are separated from the outside world, some without any family or friends outside of prison with whom to communicate.

This demographic of spiritual seeker writes handwritten notes and requires a certain consistent level of response and attention, making it problematic for those of us at the L/L Research center in Louisville to meet this genuine need.

Through her volunteer efforts beginning over seven years ago, Lorena Lucille had established L/L's modern prison ministry, corresponding with a wide range of prisoners, coordinating with us to get prisoners free books, and even issuing a quarterly newsletter called The LOOP (Law of One Prisoner) Newsletter.

After five years of excellent service, life called Lorena elsewhere. We did our best to keep up in her absence, and to fill in the hole left by her departure. A few who volunteered to head up the ministry over the past couple years, but life, as well, called them elsewhere.

Fortunately we were blessed with Azeem, a U.S.-based volunteer who stepped forward to fill the shoes and head the prison ministry. Thus far he has responded to letters from prisoners conveying

L/L's spirit of encouraging, supporting, empowering, welcoming, and generally loving the spiritual seeker. Azeem is a lyrical artist, and you can check out his work here: <http://vimeo.com/70638854>.

A Moderator Moderates

The Bring4th website is designed to serve as the online community side of L/L Research. Not that all who enjoy this information have the time/interest/energy to participate in an online forum, but for those who do, a small sense of home and kinship is possible.

The forums however do require the occasional moderating, from technical tasks, to housekeeping items, to fulfilling requests, and occasionally to guarding the boundaries by compassionate interpretation and application of the guidelines that govern the fair use of the system.

Our moderator team has been gifted with some of the greatest volunteer effort, but as with all volunteers, life typically doesn't keep the window open indefinitely on the opportunity to help.

That happened last year when we had to say goodbye to Aaron K. when he needed to focus on his two jobs and finding a new way in life, leaving the moderator team essentially to Austin and Gary (with occasional webmaster, Steve).

In the consideration of a new moderator, one particular individual stood out as exceptionally qualified and able. We sent a long-distance email to Australia, asked and fortunately received a "yes" reply from Plenum, Bring4th's newest moderator.

A Patron Provides a Pillar of Potato Pie*

Prior to 2008 when Steve E. built L/L's very first online store, the organization had to be supplemented each year from Carla and Jim's personal funds. The online store enabled seekers to more easily and conveniently support Carla & Jim. Since that time, we've been able to stay afloat. Barely. Each November we have reliably coasted in on fumes, filling the gas tank only thanks to the start of the annual fundraiser at the end of November.

L/L Research's yellow-ray situation took a turn for the better at the end of 2012 when a very, very generous seeker determined that he was going to use his means to help financially bolster the organization. As a result, we've been able to do incredible things, like fund a full-time position for Jim – allowing him to retire his one-man lawnservice business, bring Austin into the office, complete projects long in the works, begin a savings for bigger projects down the road – possibly even land-based community(!), and generally focus on retrofitting and upgrading the ship that Carla, Jim, and Don built for its future voyages.

Many, many thanks to you, Larry.

*Alliteration.

Volunteers – General

Though small by the world's standards, much of what L/L Research is able to accomplish is thanks in no small part to volunteer effort.

You are too many to name here. Please know we thank you from the bottom of our hearts!

Carla: Jim is in the yard again, all cleaned up from his day's work, wandering around and looking at his new handiwork. He will come in and share it with me soon, taking photos as he ambles and rambles. How I love that! It is thirty years now since we moved to this sweet home and began to make a garden out of blank grass. Our garden has matured as our spiritual lives have matured – slowly, lovingly and gradually. We pray that you also are enjoying the development of your own spiritual path. Of course, there are always surprises! Be ready for miracles! And have a wonderful, flower-filled summer!

We then share a meal together, which everyone contributes to. If time allows we might go for a walk if it's not raining too heavily (it's England here). In the later part of the day we focus on our personal seeking which begins with a period of silent meditation after which we do a round-robin sharing, then ask what is it that we are seeking, each individually and as a group.
